

Education Perceptions Monitor
Parent Survey
June 2010

Prepared and presented by Kirkland Rowell Marketing

Executive Summary

The survey results reveal that the school has reason to be happy with most of its activities.

With regard to Academic subjects, parents are most happy with the delivery of French, Food Technology and Design Technology. (See page 8)

The parents are least happy with the delivery of Media *, History and Science. (See page 8)

With regard to Non-Academic areas, parents are most happy with the delivery of School communication, Developing potential and School facilities. (See page 9)

The parents are least happy with the delivery of School discipline, Exam results * and Levels of homework. (See page 9)

The parents' top priority for improvement is Levels of homework. (See page 21)

The parents of boys gave a significantly higher score for Religious Education. (See page 68)

The parents of girls gave a significantly higher score for Drama. (See page 68)

On balance, significantly more parents felt that their child was "not pushed hard enough" rather than "pushed too hard". (See 73)

Criteria marked with a Pink  should only be considered as indicative.

Since The Previous Survey (see pages 8, 9 and 11)

There were no significant differences in satisfaction scores, at the 95% confidence level, since the previous survey.

Over Three Surveys (see pages 60 to 66)

The following academic area shows a significant increase in score over three surveys: Physical Education.

The following non-academic areas show a significant increase in scores over three surveys: School facilities and Ensuring pupils do best and make good progress.

The survey has achieved a benchmark of performance against which future academic years might be compared, however, due to the response rate, some scores can only be considered indicative.
